When the Boys in Blue Are Gone

Written by Jonathan Hendricks
Last Surviving Member - 89th Indiana Volunteer Infantry

When the comrades have departed,
When the veterans are no more,
When the bugle call is sounded
On that evening when
When like a weary march is ended,
When campfires glimmer long,
Who will tell the world the story,
When the boys in blue are gone?

Who will tell about their marching,
From Atlanta to the Sea?
Who will hail, and wail, and lute,
When they hear the melody?
Who will join to swell the chorus,
Of some old, Grand Army song?
Who will tell the world the story,
When the boys in blue are gone?

Sons and daughters of this nation,
You must tell of triumphs won;
When on earth our work is ended,
And the Veterans claim his own,
You must all chant the Old Glory,
And its teachings pass along,
You must tell the world the story,
When the boys in blue are gone.

To that flag, our country's emblem,
You must pledge allegiance, too,
To that flag, our nation's emblem,
May your hearts be ever true,
That the nation be protected,
Against injustice, and all wrong,
You must tell the world the story,
When the boys in blue are gone.

You must keep your country's honor,
From each step without all stain,
You must take the Veterans' place,
And repeat the call of home,
You must keep your country's honor,
And your flag alone all true,
Then we'll trust you with the story,
When the boys in blue are gone.

The Vacant Chair

Written by H.S. Washburn
after the death of Lt. John William Groat of the 15th Massachusetts Infantry at the Battle of Bull's Bluff

We shall meet but we shall miss him,
There will be one vacant chair,
We shall linger to cross him
While we breathe our evening prayer,
When one year ago we gathered,
Joy was in his mild blue eye,
Now the golden cord is severed,
And our hopes in ruin lie.

At our bedside, sad and lonely,
Often will the bosom swell
At remembrance of the story
How our noble Willie fell,
How he strove to bear the banner
Thro' the thickest of the fight
And uphold our country's honor
In the strength of manhood's might.

True, they tell us wreaths of glory
Evermore will deck his brow,
But this soothes the anguish only,
Sweeping o'er our heartstrings now,
Sleep today, O early fallen,
In thy green and narrow bed
Droves from the pine and cypress
Mingle with the tears we shed.
